Eben Holden was presented in a de-lightful way by a strong cast Friday night and was witnessed by a fair-sized audience. The scenery and stage settings were rural without being overdrawn. The charming love story which is familiar to all readers of Irving Bacheller's novel was delineated by people particularly well fitted for their respective roles. William McKey played the part of Eben Holden in a way which made everybody admired nim, and Miss Blanche Kendall as Hope Taylor, the hair-lip hired man at Lone Pine farm, Arthur B. Jennings did some extremely difficult work, giving entire satisfaction besides furnishing a great satisfaction besides furnishing a great role as presented was fully up to the re-quirements of the story. Brattleboro, Vt.

Dear Sir: The usual way to buy paint is to take the lowest price by the gallon. Mistake: the buyer loses by it; how much? Depends on the paint; it is so much a gallon, or so much a year. How smuch a gallon or year, do you think? As much perhaps, as the total price of the paint. It may take twice the number of gallons.

N. Avery, Delhi, N. Y., owns two houses, both exactly slike. He painted one with Devoe and one with another paint. Devoe 6 gallons; the other 12.

Go by the name: Devoe. There's nothing cheaper. Go by the price; there's nothing dearer, except not painting at all. Poor paint is better than none.

What does it cost not to paint at all? Can't figure it out exactly; say a tenth of the building a year, besides looks.

What is poor paint worth, then? Don't know and don't care; you don't want it. Go by the name. Yours truly.

Many people have been fooled this week by what at first sight appears to be a bit of vandalism. Passing E. J. Fenton & Co's store they noted a 2 x 4 stick lodged in the plate glass windaw, also the shattered appearance of the window and the offer of a reward of $100 for the detection of the culprit. Men of good judgment have not stopped to think that a stick of wood thrown at a window would not lodge in such a position, but have talked about lawlessness being rampart, etc. The break is a clever advertising scheme, the stick being cut in two and a plece being fastened on each side of the window. The reward of $100 offered last October for the recovery of Lester J. Stafford, insane, has been increased to $300 this week by John E. Gale of Guilford, Stafford's guardian. Stafford disappeared from the home of R. N. Fairbank in Guilford, where he lived. Oct. 15. A search was instituted immediately by Mr. Gale, which was kept up until snow fell, paid searchers being employed much of the time. About 12 square miles of territory was covered, a large part of it being extremely rough, but not the slightest trace of Stafford was found. Since then Mr. Gale has learned that about the time of Stafford's disappearance several people in Leyden saw a man answering Stafford's description and having certain similar characteristics. He is confident that Stafford perished and that his body will be found not many miles from his home. When Stafford went away he had an aunt in Maine and an incle in the West. The aunt died just a week later. Stafford's estate amounts to about $4000, and if he is dead and his body is found an interesting question will come up as to who died first, as bearing upon the division of the estate. The reward of $100 offered last October

Highway Commissioners Instructed.

State Highway Commissioner Charles W. Gates of Franklin conducted the annual meeting of the Windham county road commissioners in Festival hall yesterday. The attendance of over 50 people, including several commissioners from other countles, showed an increasing interest in these meetings. Prof. J. W. terest in these meetings. Prof. J. W. Votey of the University of Vermont spoke at 11 o'clock on "Parth roads and Road Material." He considered the subject of drainage to some extent, showing just how the various conditions which confront every road commissioner should confront every road commissioner should be met, to give the best results, including in his discussion tile drains, stone drains, side ditches and culverts. He exhibited various kinds of gravel which are used side ditches and culverts. He exhibited various kinds of gravel which are used on Vermont roads, indicating the kinds that are suitable and the kinds that tought to be let alone.

In the afternoon Commissioner Gates spoke on "State Road Work," discussing different phases of the work freely with the commissioners and bringing out many helpful points. The gravel road is the ideal road in Vermont, and particular stress was laid on the consideration of that kind of a road. Grades underdrains, foundations, surfacing, shoulders, surface drainage, etc., were subjects discussed in particular. The state commissioner made several suggestions, which were presented in written form.

Proceding Mr. Gates's address Congressman Kittredge Haskins spoke on good roads and the proposed national aid under the proposed conditions would be of no advantage to the state.

Bellows Falls Touchy. [Bellows Falls Times of Thursday.]

Considerable feeling was expressed bout town Tuesday afternoon when it ecame known that a game with Brat-leboro scheduled for that evening in Keens had been cancelled by Brattleboro at about 2 o'clock. A special train had been chartered, the half rented, posters printed and other expenses amounting to about $50, incurred.

An interview with Manager E. W. Condon of the local A. C. brings out these facts: At about 11.45 or two hours before the game was cancelled, he had a talk with March, who is managing the Independents during J. H. Allen's absence, and it was plainly understood by both that everything was in readiness for the game. Then at about 2 o'clock Frank Waite, treasurer and half owner of the Independents collect articles. Independents, called up with a great tale of woe saying that Ellis had sprained his knee. Riley was sick in bed. March had hurt his hand (and that before 11 o'c Doran was in Troy, N. Y., and Howe had rheumatism.

It looks as though the Brattleboro aggregation were afraid of getting trimmed, but that they should have waited until six hours before the game before cancelling it is not exactly clean sport. After this exhibition of nerve Brattleboro certainly has no claim to the state championship having been beaten two out of three by Company D. If the latter refuse to play the return game with the A. C., which they should do, having agreed to, then the local team has a clear title to the state championship. It is up to both the St. Johnsbury and Brattleboro aggregations "to put up or shut up."
